Self-Service Saturdays are perfect for anyone who wants to pick out their own plants, see what we have available in-person, or who just enjoys wandering the aisles of the Wild Plant Nursery as much as we do. We’ll have materials on native-plant communities and specific species available. If you need more help developing your plant list, our 1-on-1 appointments are still available (Sundays, Mondays, and Thursdays, 9am-Noon). If you already have a plant list in mind, please email orders@earthsangha.org to place an order for curbside pick-up!

Our #1 concern is the safety and health of our customers, volunteers, and staff. We're limiting the number of customers per hour to 10 to ensure safe distancing during both shopping and check-out. Sanitizing stations will be available, and everyone must wear a mask.

The Wild Plant Nursery is bursting with local-ecotype native plants eager to find a new home in your garden. See our full Species List HERE. Fall, as experienced gardeners know, is also the best time to plant! Trees, shrubs, and perennials like the cooler weather and greater rainfall lets them establish robust roots. Late blooming annuals can make great additions to your garden, and many will "volunteer" from seed next year.

We look forward to seeing you (from a distance) at one of our "Self-Service Saturdays." Click HERE to reserve your spot.
